DO-IT-YOURSELF

Adorn yourself with homemade puka shell necklaces, bracelets and anklets. Scan the shore for shells (pick out the ones with tiny holes in them) or hit your local bead store.
String them on elastic thread or fishing wire, tie ends together or add a clasp and—presto!—you'll be puka pretty.

Made of solid wood, the earliest surfboards weighed up to 175 pounds and were nearly 16 feet long.
